

COL. WETMORE WAS ASSAULTED

Peter Arlund Says He Insulted His Wife.

ATTACK AT THE PLANTERS

LOUISVILLE DISPATCH SAYS AFFAIR WAS NEWS TO WIFE.

Arlund in Interview Said "Mrs. Arlund" Pointed Out Col. Wetmore as the Man Who Insulted Her.

A special dispatch to the Post-Dispatch from Louisville says: Peter Arlund, the promoter of Louisville, will have to explain to his wife his relations with the woman he so strenuously defended last night in the lobby of the Planters' Hotel of St. Louis. The woman was represented as his wife. It develops today that the real Mrs. Peter Arlund is in Louisville and had not been at St. Louis.

Mrs. Arlund was seen at her apartments at the St. Charles, on Second street. She expressed great surprise over the story from St. Louis. "Why, it is all news to me," she said.

"I know that Mr. Arlund has been in St. Louis. I had a telegram from him yesterday. He was then at the Planters' Hotel. I have heard nothing today."

Mrs. Arlund was formerly Miss Trafford of Bardwell, Ky. Arlund, when apprised of the dispatch from Louisville, denied the matter briefly. He said that the woman at the Planters whom he had said was Mrs. Arlund, was Mrs. Arlund and that he had no wife at Louisville. He stated that he considered the matter closed.

Col. Moses C. Wetmore, formerly a St. Louis tobacco manufacturer, president of the Planters' Hotel Co. and politician, was struck several times about the body in the lobby of the Planters' Hotel Sunday night by Peter Arlund of Louisville, Ky., who had been plying excitedly back and forth waiting for him.

Mrs. Arlund was with him. They had looked into the cafe, and Mrs. Arlund pointed to Wetmore where he sat and told her husband that he looked like the man who had insulted her. Arlund sent his card in to the colonel, asking an immediate interview. No attention was paid to the card, and Arlund impatiently waited until the colonel came out and strode into the lobby, followed by the Arlunds. Mrs. Arlund, it is stated, nodded to her husband that she recognized Wetmore. As Wetmore stood in the lobby Mrs. Arlund passed close to him and again nodded her head and passed on to the woman's reception room. Mr. Arlund met Col. Wetmore at 8:30 as he left the cafe.

The gentleman from Kentucky then charged the Missouri colonel with having insulted his wife and demanded an apology.

"I will never apologize," exclaimed Col. Wetmore dramatically, denying the other's charges.

Mr. Arlund drew back his fist and landed on Col. Wetmore's body. Col. Wetmore staggered back from the impact of the blow and would have fallen to the floor had he not been caught by men who crowded about the pair.

Arlund's high hat went spinning across the floor. He gave it no heed, but doubled up his fists and sprang upon Wetmore again, delivering three other blows in quick succession.

Col. Wetmore, not suspecting an assault, did nothing to defend himself, but endeavored to escape into the crowd, crying for the police. Employees and guests of the hotel attempted to separate the men, but others, in sympathy with Arlund, demanded that he be permitted to finish his man.

WETMORE RETIRED.

After Arlund had struck Col. Wetmore four times, the latter had backed into security without attempting to retaliate, picked up his hat and joined his wife in the women's reception room of the hotel. Together they rode in a cab to a theater.

Col. Wetmore avoided further publicity by retiring to his room in the hotel. Shortly before midnight Mr. and Mrs. Arlund returned from the theater.

In explanation of the assault Mr. Arlund said:

"About a week ago Mrs. Arlund and myself came to the hotel. I was obliged to be away from the city for a few days on a business trip. When I returned my wife told me that she had been insulted by a man in the hotel. Three evenings before, she said, a man followed her from the cafe, entered the elevator with her and got out on her floor. He walked behind her along the corridor, and when she unlocked her room pushed her in and followed.

PUSHED HIM FROM ROOM.

"Mrs. Arlund ordered him to leave the room, threatening to summon relief from the office. He refused to go, saying, 'You had better let me stay.' She shoved him out of the door and locked it.

"When I returned she told me of the occurrence, and said she had frequently seen the man about the hotel. She pointed him out to me, assuring me positively that she was not mistaken in her man. Since then I have tried to meet him, but he has avoided me.

"I laid in wait for him and caught him tonight. I demanded an apology, and when he was refused I chastised him.

DISARMED HIMSELF.

"Before meeting Wetmore I went to my room and disarmed myself, putting away everything that might look like a weapon, as I felt that I could settle the matter with my fists.

"My wife begged me not to get into a fight, and to satisfy her and let the man down easy. I approached him and asked him to apologize to Mrs. Arlund. He said he would apologize to no one, and then I struck him.

"That he was the man who insulted my wife there can be no doubt. Besides being positively identified by my wife, he was pointed out as the man who followed her to the elevator and up to her room by three persons, one of them an elevator boy, and other a bellboy.

"If I was in the wrong do you suppose I would be permitted to stay in the hotel? He is the president of the hotel corporation, and if my cause was not just and reasonable I would have been asked to relinquish my rooms. I have not been asked to do so.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

WEARY WILLIE SEES THE PRINCE

BY WEARY WILLIE.

"Well, this certainly gets me! Here's de Prince o' Khayyam ridin' around here like de King o' Dudes er de King o' England, eatin' all de swell grub in sight, 'n' me a-changin' on de ragged edge an' gittin' de hooks.

Who is dis Prince o' Khayyam, anyhow? Where did he ever learn to cut ice? Where'd he get on de train o' civilization? Who paid his fare? How'd he ever break out of his natuf country?

If he'd a-been born of poor but colored parents in St. Louis, he might a-been runnin' a crap game on Morgan street ter-day, 'stead o' comin' as a special invoy to de ingeneers o' de World's Fair.

If he had a-been born in dis country, de nearest he'd a' ever come to bein' a autocrat would a-been as de porter of a Pullman sleeping car.

De best he'd a-got fer his money would a' been a strap in a street car an' a tick-et to de Colored Cook Ladies' Sadderdy night ball.

He might a-won a few cake-walkin' meddles, er might even a-belonged to de choir o' de Affrican M. E. Church, but daid a-been about all fer him.

Yet here dey's comin' in carriages by day an' in plush-covered divans by night, carryin' his own cooks, riding on his own train an' a-smokin' gold-tipped cigarets wid his name on 'em in gold letters.

We're a great an' liberty-lovin' people, but we are certainly stuck on kings. Jus say "king" to us, an' we begin ter swell up. We go daffy over a prince, an' if a real king'd ever come down de pike wid all his royal togs on, we'd throw a couple o' fits in chorus ever block er two.

If I cud only go out to some islan' in de Pacific Ocean an' set up a $4 throne fer me, I'd announce to de world dat I was King Jumbun' Jehosaphat I, I bet I'd come back to de Younted States an' sponge off o' de public an' eat de swelllest grub in de entire works fer a year at de time on de strength o' me rap.

Kings an' tramps is de only people dat makes a business o' not workin', but de kings is de only ones dat can make it pay.

Formerly president of the Southern Finance and Development Co., his partner was Thomas B. Leonard of Eddyville, Ky. They disagreed and a fight and dissolution of the company followed.

Promoter Arlund is the man who by his promoting forced the great Louisville & Nashville to buy a branch railroad with whose bondholders the big road had been in litigation for 15 years. The litigation is now ended and may continue several years longer. The branch was about to be made a link in Arlund's competing road.

Col. Wetmore's title is due to the fact that he served one year as colonel of the First Regiment, in 1861, before Col. Baird, and not from service during the Spanish-American war.

Col. Wetmore was seen at his office in the Carlton building this morning and characterized the assault upon himself as "one of those unfortunate things that happen to men while going through this life." He said he had been attacked by a man whom he did not know, and that to his knowledge he had never seen Mr. Arlund and would not recognize him if he met her. He declined to state what had happened, or what led up to the assault, he said.

Col. Wetmore, not suspecting an assault, did nothing to defend himself, but endeavored to escape into the crowd, crying for the police. Employees and guests of the hotel attempted to separate the men, but others, in sympathy with Arlund, demanded that he be permitted to finish his man.

WETMORE RETIRED.

After Arlund had struck Col. Wetmore four times, the latter had backed into security without attempting to retaliate, picked up his hat and joined his wife in the women's reception room of the hotel. Together they rode in a cab to a theater.

Col. Wetmore avoided further publicity by retiring to his room in the hotel. Shortly before midnight Mr. and Mrs. Arlund returned from the theater.

In explanation of the assault Mr. Arlund said:

"About a week ago Mrs. Arlund and myself came to the hotel. I was obliged to be away from the city for a few days on a business trip. When I returned my wife told me that she had been insulted by a man in the hotel. Three evenings before, she said, a man followed her from the cafe, entered the elevator with her and got out on her floor. He walked behind her along the corridor, and when she unlocked her room pushed her in and followed.

PUSHED HIM FROM ROOM.

"Mrs. Arlund ordered him to leave the room, threatening to summon relief from the office. He refused to go, saying, 'You had better let me stay.' She shoved him out of the door and locked it.

"When I returned she told me of the occurrence, and said she had frequently seen the man about the hotel. She pointed him out to me, assuring me positively that she was not mistaken in her man. Since then I have tried to meet him, but he has avoided me.

"I laid in wait for him and caught him tonight. I demanded an apology, and when he was refused I chastised him.

DISARMED HIMSELF.

"Before meeting Wetmore I went to my room and disarmed myself, putting away everything that might look like a weapon, as I felt that I could settle the matter with my fists.

"My wife begged me not to get into a fight, and to satisfy her and let the man down easy. I approached him and asked him to apologize to Mrs. Arlund. He said he would apologize to no one, and then I struck him.

"That he was the man who insulted my wife there can be no doubt. Besides being positively identified by my wife, he was pointed out as the man who followed her to the elevator and up to her room by three persons, one of them an elevator boy, and other a bellboy.

"If I was in the wrong do you suppose I would be permitted to stay in the hotel? He is the president of the hotel corporation, and if my cause was not just and reasonable I would have been asked to relinquish my rooms. I have not been asked to do so.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Wetmore denied that he had insulted Mrs. Arlund, and declared that he knew no one who had been asked to appear as a witness at the trial.

FREE TEXTBOOK PLAN APPROVED

Instruction Committee Will Recommend Its Adoption.

BOARD MEETS TOMORROW

COST WOULD BE $27,000 FOR THE FIRST YEAR.

Resolution Calling for Supplying of School Books and Stationery Was Presented by Director John Schroers.

The instruction committee of the Board of Education will recommend at the meeting tomorrow the adoption of Director John Schroers' resolution providing for free textbooks and school supplies. It will also recommend that the stationery supplies now sold to the children be issued free on and after Jan. 25, 1938.

The passage of the fifth amendment to the state constitution covers these questions at the election Tuesday is assured, and it is the desire of the Board of Education to lose no time in putting it into effect immediately upon the amendment being officially promulgated at the state capital.

The report of the committee recommends that the free book system be extended to all grades of the public schools and to the high school, under such instructions as may be made by the superintendent of instruction, the extension of the system in that respect to be operative from the opening of the school session in September next.

It further states, for the information of the members of the board, that the superintendent estimates the cost of supplying every child in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades with all the necessary textbooks, furnishing them as the necessity of purchasing the new books arises, at about $27,000 for the first year and $12,500 for each of the following two years.

The total cost of supplying the new books at once and of replacing every book already in the possession of the children would be at least $50,000, and the maintenance of the free books after the system has been introduced, the superintendent estimates at about $15,000 per year for the higher grades. The cost of furnishing free stationery and kindergarten supplies, according to the superintendent's estimate, would amount to about $34,000 per year.

There is said to be no opposition to the resolution and the report of the committee, and it is expected to be passed at tomorrow's meeting.

California VIA Sunset Route.

Beginning Nov. 15, the Southern Pacific Co. will inaugurate double daily service between New Orleans and San Francisco. The world-famous Sunset Limited, will leave New Orleans at 10:45 a. m. and the "Pacific Express" at 8:00 p. m.

Both trains are fully equipped in the latest and most approved pattern, and are strictly up to date in every particular. If you wish to have an enjoyable trip to California this winter, see that your tickets read via New Orleans and "Sunset Route." Quickest time and best service.

For particulars address J. H. Lothrop, General Agent, 908 Olive st., St. Louis, Mo.

MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, DEATHS

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses have been issued since the last publication of the list in the Post-Dispatch:

George Voigts ..... 2901 Angelo at Katherine Norris ..... 4533 Nebraska at F. C. Ramey, 815 Brooklyn at Lorraine Milhous ..... 915 Brooklyn at Frank Ostapka ..... 606 O'Fallon at Stanislaw Lewandowski ..... 1409 N. 7th at Herman Marcus ..... 1116 N. 9th at Fannie Ugar ..... 1141 N. 7th at Max Holman ..... 811 N. 7th at Rosale Kate ..... 141 N. 8th at Max Bendig, Jr. ..... 4127 Greenleaf at Isabelle Schambach ..... 1518 Benton at J. W. Thompson, Jr. ..... 1518 Benton at Katie M. Rolberg ..... 1516 N. 12th at F. A. Parker ..... 304 S. 15th at Amelia Haba ..... 1516 N. 12th at P. W. Haberman ..... 4479 Morgan at Blanche C. Altmeyer ..... Hotel Berlin at M. T. Newcomb ..... Prospect, Ill. at Annie Vollmer ..... Washington, Mo. at Tom Urban ..... 1506 S. 12th at Red Staudt ..... 1514 S. 12th at

Births Recorded.

91. and R. Solomon, 4351 Delmar; girl. J. and M. Gough, 2918 Division; girl. J. and M. Gleason, 1921 Prairie; boy. R. and H. Rutledge, 6246 McPherson; boy. E. and M. Schmitz, 2122 Cherokee; boy. E. and R. Kiefer, 2533 Thomas; girl. G. and M. Swartz, 3008 Olive; girl. W. and C. Somers, 4006 Natural Bridge rd.; boy. H. and H. Humphrey, 1319 Aubrey; girl. J. and M. Ernst, 1128 Newhouse; girl. E. and M. Rinehart, 4346 Norfolk; girl. P. and E. Kuller, 3865 Maine; girl. W. and M. Linnell, 3943 Adams; boy. F. and L. Cline, 3840 Laclede; boy.

Wedding Rings (Solid Gold).

Finest qualities, $3.00 to $20. Mermord & Jacard's, Broadway and Locust. Write for catalogue. Mailed free.

Burial Permits.

Jeannie Joseph, 17, 1112 N. 11th; pertussis. William Dwyer, 48, City Hospital; debility. Nicholas Shupin, 85, Poorhouse; debility. Sarah Woods, 34, 1622 Locust; hemorrhoids. Mary Steinkewasser, 33, 1227 N. 12th; heart disease. David Hamilton, 60, 2128 Wash; phthisis. Dennis Owen, 27, 1613 N. 15th; tuberculosis. Thomas R. Braun, 75, 1402 Center; phthisis. John Junier, 76, 140 Center; phthisis. Edward Jones, 60, 1400 Center; heart disease. Thomas Buchanan, 81, 2200 Robert; debility. John H. Daniel, 36, 1447 Old Manchester; heart disease. John J. Gallio, 49, 8726 Evans; consumption. Emile Bremer, 42, 2421 S. 18th; phthisis. Henry Katt, 74, 1528 S. 9th; debility.

Winter Tours.

To Texas and the Mexican resorts. Tickets with liberal limits and stopover privileges now on sale via M. K. & T. Railway. See "Katy's" agent, 530 Olive street.

Post's Birthday Celebrated.

Post Schiller's birthday was celebrated by the South St. Louis Turnverein Society last night at the hall, Tenth and Carroll streets. Scores from the past works were portrayed by the members, there was a drill by the youth and the entertainment concluded with a dance.

Bears the Signature of Dr. H. H. Hittner

CASTORIA, For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Supreme Court Dismisses Suit to Compel Taxation of Corporations at Full Value.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 10.—The Supreme Court on banc this morning sustained the motion to quash the information of Dr. William Preston Hill of St. Louis in his mandamus suit to compel the state board of equalization to assess the corporations of that city at their full value.

This knocks the case out of court and is a judgment in favor of the state board of equalization. This action of the court is in accordance with its decision rendered by the court last year in the mandamus suit of the school board of St. Louis City against the state board of equalization to force the board to assess corporations at their full value.

Highest Official Test.

Scagell tireproof material. Hans Molchin, inventor, residence 2710 N. 25th st.

Boy's Voice Won Prize.

of Christ Church Cathedral presented 12-year-old boy, soprano soloist of that congregation, with a gold watch Saturday. The presentation was made by Prof. H. H. Darby for the giver, who wished his 14-year-old son to remain in the choir, but who wished to reward the 12-year-old boy for the part he had given him. Curtis lives with his parents at 1028 Dolman street.

EQUALIZATION BOARD WINS DOG "DOPING" MADE DIFFICULT

American Coursing Board Adopts Rigid Rules as to Stimulants and Rubdowns.

Dog "doping" got a severe setback by the legislation at a meeting held in the St. Nicholas Hotel last night under the auspices of the American Coursing Board. Some important additions were made to the by-laws of the organization. The most important was the action taken in "doping," specifying the stimulants a rubbing preparations that may be used on dogs. The new regulation is not as severe as the one in force in California, but covers the situation well, and makes "doping" of dogs a dangerous practice.

The rubdowns or other stimulant mixtures will be secured from kennel steward appointed by the club, and anyone found with any kind of preparation not authorized will be ruled out for life.

The rubdown mixtures held by the stewards will be restricted to witch hazel, aloe, alcohol and other special preparations known as "Molocator mixture N. 3." Stimulants will be limited to sherry or port wine.

A resolution was passed asking the American Coursing Board, in charge of the games at Chicago next year to consider courting among the sports to be given during the carnival.

The action was taken at the invitation of President Furber of the games committee and the latter has given the board to understand that such a resolution will even draw attention. The annual election result in the unanimous choice of Dr. J. B. Lyons and Secretary William J. Day Street Police Court Monday. Mrs. Me testified that the defendant abused her, 5, while intoxicated.

Meler Abused His Wife.

Meler of 2736 North Twentieth street charged with disturbing the peace of wife, Louisa, was before Judge J. B. Lyons and Secretary William J. Day Street Police Court Monday. Mrs. Me testified that the defendant abused her, 5, while intoxicated.

Do You Need Glasses?

Our Optician, Dr. CHAS. REILLY, who has no superior in his profession, will examine your eyes. FREE OF CHARGE. ADJUST GLASSES TO YOUR NEEDS. Our prices for glasses are about half what you are asked elsewhere. For a sample.

Solid Gold Spring Rimless Eyeglasses, with first quality lenses, $1.75. Other styles in proportion.

Simmons Hardware Co. Broadway & Olive

RELIABLE ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS. NO DELAY. DENTIST.

So reliable, accurate dentists, who are experts in system of painless dentistry. Don't let your money away on the so-called best dent when you can have it done by us for the cost. Material. Positively no students.

TEETH WITHOUT PAIN. VITALIZED AND PAIN BY USE OF.

We are the only dentists west of New York who make their own Vitalized Air and Gas. A Vitalized Air Giver, 25¢. Teeth Extracted. We Say That You Are in Right Place. Hear What We Have to Say. All work guaranteed for 15 years. All work guaranteed for 15 years.

UNION DENTAL COLLEGE. 623 Olive st., 2d floor. Hours 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Day, 10 to 4. S. E. Cor. 7th and Olive sts.

22 YEARS IN THE LEAD. OAK. SIZES AND PRICES TO SUIT.

MONEY TO LOAN. In sums from $1 to $100,000 at lowest rate.

S. VAN RAALTE & CO. 413 N. 6th. Also 213 N. 7th. Bargains in watches, diamonds, jewelry.

DEATHS.

BROWNHILL. On Sunday, Nov. 9, after a long illness, Mary E. Brownhill, beloved of John J. Brownhill, and mother of Edward, Harry, George, Harry, Leah, Kate, Violet and Roland Brownhill, age years and 4 months.

Funeral from late residence, 1321 Belmont street, Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 2 p. m. Friends invited to attend. Reading (P.A.) and Hoboken (N. J.) please copy.

CAVAN. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 1 a. m. Dennis P. Cavan, aged 27 years, beloved son of Patrick and Johanna Cavan, brother of John, Mary, George and Stephen. The funeral will take place from the late residence, 1413 Corti, Eighteenth street, Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 2 p. m. Friends invited to attend. Reading (P.A.) and Hoboken (N. J.) please copy.

CUNNINGHAM. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 1 a. m. Joseph H. Cunningham, dearly beloved son of Patrick and Mary Cunningham, Longhlin, aged 27 years 2 months. Funeral will take place from the family home, No. 214 Dayton street, on Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 2 p. m. to St. John's Church, thence to Calvary Cemetery. Friends invited to attend.

ELMER. On Sunday, Nov. 9, at 6:15 a. m. Amelia Elmer (nee Schmitz), beloved wife of Herman Elmer, and mother of Eugene Elmer, aged 81 years, after a short illness. Funeral from residence, 1029 Chestnut street, Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 2 p. m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

HELMAN. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 7 a. m. at Bethesda Hotel, Samuel Helman, aged 71 years. Funeral on Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 10 a. m. from residence of A. M. Helman, 524 McPherson st.

LAMBE. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 12 p. m. Louise Lambe (nee Birch), beloved wife of W. F. Lambe, aged 52 years. Funeral on Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 2 p. m. from residence of 1029 North Newstead avenue. Friends are invited to attend.

MCMURDOCK. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 11 o'clock p. m. Margaret McCormack, beloved wife of John McCormack, in her 70th year, beloved of Mrs. Julia Collins, and mother of Mrs. Emma Collins. Funeral from late residence, 1029 Chestnut street, Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 2 p. m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

MCNEIL. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 11 o'clock p. m. Margaret McCormack, beloved wife of John McCormack, in her 70th year, beloved of Mrs. Julia Collins, and mother of Mrs. Emma Collins. Funeral from late residence, 1029 Chestnut street, Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 2 p. m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

MCNEIL. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 11 o'clock p. m. Margaret McCormack, beloved wife of John McCormack, in her 70th year, beloved of Mrs. Julia Collins, and mother of Mrs. Emma Collins. Funeral from late residence, 1029 Chestnut street, Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 2 p. m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

MCNEIL. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 11 o'clock p. m. Margaret McCormack, beloved wife of John McCormack, in her 70th year, beloved of Mrs. Julia Collins, and mother of Mrs. Emma Collins. Funeral from late residence, 1029 Chestnut street, Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 2 p. m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

MCNEIL. On Sunday, Nov. 9, 1902, at 11 o'clock p. m. Margaret

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER. Published by
THE PULITZER PUBLISHING CO., 210-12 N. Broadway.

Sunday Post-Dispatch NET CIRCULATION

FOR THE MONTH OF
OCTOBER, 1902

October 5 - - 180,546
October 12 - - 182,689
October 19 - - 183,519
October 26 - - 184,941

Largest NET Circulation West of the Mississippi by 80,000.

People's Popular Want Ads
TOTAL FOR OCTOBER
38,810

10,000 GREATER Than the total of the next largest bonafide Want Medium west of the Mississippi.

The President may be willing, but Congress may be weak.

What would Darwin have said to the monkeying in the House of Delegates?

The name "Amerind" for "American Indian" looks as if it had been alumed.

The immense audience that listened to Father Coffey in Masonic Temple last night was a striking evidence of the aroused public sentiment in regard to municipal reform in St. Louis.

FREE TEXT BOOKS.

The first fruit of the new constitutional amendments is seen in the announcement of the school board that free books and stationery will be furnished pupils of all grades. The rule is effective at the beginning of the next school year. The cost is even more trifling than the public has been led to believe. The superintendent estimates that the cost of supplying very child in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades will be $27,000 the first year and $12,500 for each of the following two years. The annual cost of free books for the higher grades will be the same, $12,500, and the total annual charge for new books, stationery, all grades, and kindergarten supplies is estimated at $44,000.

The Post-Dispatch has advocated this step for years and the agitation in these columns was the beginning of the movement in St. Louis which has just been crowned with success. This measure will undoubtedly add greatly to the usefulness of the schools. It will increase the number of pupils and encourage more diligent attendance. Besides, it will enable many to pass through the High School course who have heretofore stopped with the grammar school grades. These results have uniformly followed the introduction of free books in the schools of other cities and we may, of course, expect the same consequences here.

The campaign of education begun by the Post-Dispatch ends in this great blessing to the people of St. Louis.

The Indiana Idea and the Hanna Idea have somewhat overshadowed the Iowa Idea.

ENFORCE THE SMOKE LAW.

The smoke cloud that overhung the city Monday morning made it evident that the smoke abatement law has not been effectively enforced. A haze of smoke was visible in looking merely across the street, and the old-time huge smoke bank plainly showed when one glanced to the westward, in the direction of the prevailing wind.

It is a matter of common remark that a great many large users of coal are not obeying the law. They have either not installed smoke abatement appliances, or are permitting their engineers to fire in a careless and unscientific manner.

The abatement law should be strictly enforced, without favoritism. If two-thirds of the manufacturers and other large users of bituminous coal can install smoke-consuming appliances, all can do so. A law only partly enforced soon becomes a dead letter. Abate the smoke and do away with the ugly and insupportable smoke cloud.

A less culpable body than the House of Delegates would deserve to have the hose turned on it.

SCIENTIFIC CAMPAIGNING.

After a somewhat extended study of campaign methods old observers conclude that there is no such thing as campaign science. It is no more subject to rule than the weather or astrology or any other pseudo science.

In Ohio Tom Johnson was beaten by 100,000 after a telling campaign in a red automobile. It was unique, fetching, but not convincing. So say some observers. The people don't like the groveling in politics. But on the other hand, reports indicate Democratic gains in Indiana and the counties in which Johnson plowed up the earth with his chug chug.

Between the two views, where is the truth? Did the people vote against the Cleveland statesman because of his automobile or because of his principles, and did the Democratic gains come from the same source of doubt and uncertainty?

Mr. Bryan was a superb campaigner. People loved him and went miles to hear him speak. But in the precincts where he spoke there were the greatest Republican victories.

The fact is, the best way to carry on a canvass. After securing his nomination the candidate should follow his impulses with a good conscience and accept the consequences with a good grace. The people's will can never be ascertained before election, and often it is no less in doubt afterward.

The Roosevelt-Shaw button has got the start of all other presidential buttons. There are candidates for vice-president who are too slow.

A SURPLUS OF WEALTH.

"An embarrassment of riches" is a phrase not often realized in actual business life, yet it describes the condition of the United States today.

The railroads are unable to handle the traffic of the country. The manufacturers of locomotives and cars are unable to fill the orders of the railroads, although working to full capacity day and night.

It is a remarkable situation. The equipments of the railroads are said to be 50,000 cars short of their needs.

The manufacturing and transportation interests were wholly unprepared for the tremendous crops of the year and the resultant flood of prosperity. Production and commercial activities have outstripped the transportation facilities.

The situation is unfortunate. It is a pity to lose opportunities to realize the resources of the country. But it has consoling features. It is better to be embarrassed by a surplus than to suffer from a deficiency.

Secretary Root compares the trusts to weeds in a garden. Strange to say, they have been growing during every session of Congress for the past five years.

WOMEN NEED NOT APPLY.

Women are not wanted in the government service.

Under the rules whenever a vacancy occurs in the departments the Civil Service Commission is notified and certifies three names from the eligible list. The eligible list is made up of those who have passed the civil service examination.

Now, although more women than men pass the examinations, the commission has requested that only the names of men be sent out. It is out of 10,000 persons certified last year that only 700 were women. And this notwithstanding the women on the average make a higher percentage than men.

The reason is thus stated by an official in one of the departments:

"It is in the interest of the service and the women themselves. Every time a woman is appointed to a clerkship in one of the departments she lessens the chances of marriage for herself and deprives some worthy man of a chance to take unto himself a wife and raise a family. And, in addition to that, the men make far better clerks. They complain less, do more work and work overtime, if need be, without grumbling."

This does not look like woman's progress towards independence and equality. Is the work of the last 25 years to be undone by bureau chiefs and the Civil Service Commission, or will Congress be asked to intervene?

Oklahoma and New Mexico, having been found to be loyal to the Republican party, are quite certain to be admitted to the Union. It is to be hoped that in a burst of congressional magnanimity Arizona, which happens to be slightly Democratic, will be admitted with the other two flourishing territories. Whenever a territory is entitled to admission, its politics should out no figure.

NO DRUGGED DRINKING WATER.

The Board of Public Improvements has faithfully represented the people of St. Louis in rejecting the proposed ordinance for the chemical treatment of the city's water supply. It is to be hoped that this puts a final period to the consideration or discussion of any process which involves the use of alum or any other form of medication. The people of this city do not want alum, even in homeopathic doses and disguised.

If there were no other means for effecting water purification, there might be some warrant for further persistence in behalf of the adoption of the process. But there are other means of demonstrated efficacy.

In Germany, where the scientific study of water purification is old, and where it has not been confined merely to those whose official duties made it an object, alum is not only not used, but is openly condemned. In fact, domestic filters in which alum is used are contraband. Yet the great city of Berlin purified its water supply, and is continually adding to its immense system of sand filters.

Hamburg, with a much more modern filter plant than Berlin—in fact, the finest large filter plant in the world—uses no alum, or other coagulant, but gets most satisfactory results from sand. London, with somewhat antiquated sand filters, has never felt the necessity for medicating its water supply.

There are many other cities of lesser grade in which sand filtration, without the aid of chemicals, has been successful. It has been argued that sand filtration, while practicable with fairly clear waters, cannot succeed here because of the excessive turbidity of the Missouri river. The statement is misleading. It may be more expensive here than in the cities mentioned, because it will require more basin surface for sedimentation of the water, preliminary to turning it in upon the sand. But when the heavy matter in suspension is precipitated by gravity the Missouri water filters as perfectly through sand as any water in Europe.

Many St. Louis homes are supplied at the present time through sand and stone filters which yield water of the greatest purity. This demonstrates the possibility of nonchemical purification in very considerable volumes. Beyond this, it is a question of proportion only.

The city which adopts the process of medication of its water supply puts a permanent handicap upon its growth. No argument of economy in operation can lighten or justify this handicap.

Let us hope that our engineers will abandon the alum proposition altogether, and consider only those processes which are free from the taint of drugs.

Senator Beveridge declares that his party in Indiana won its great victory because it made a determined fight against tariff revision. Even the protection to the Standard Oil monopoly must not cease if the Indiana idea is to prevail.

WANTED—A WIFE.

J. W. Bailey, governor-elect of Kansas, wants a wife. In fact, he must have a wife in order to keep faith with the men who elected him. He was elected on a wife platform. Had he not promised to bring a bride to the new $70,000 executive mansion, the probabilities are that he would never have been permitted to rest his weary bones there after the campaign was over.

Kansas believes that every man, especially every governor, should have a wife. No wife, no public honors. But so far Mr. Bailey has failed to find the girl who will say yes. There may be girls who would blush a pretty consent to his wooing, but they have not yet come within range of the Bailey eye. So discouraging is the prospect at home that he has been permitted to go into another state, if necessary, to find that girl whom he would agree to become the first lady of the Sunflower State.

O Bailey, cast your glances toward the rising sun! Look Missouri! Seek Beauty on its native heath. Come hither, disconsolate Kansan, and gaze upon Womanhood in all the splendor of perfection! What man would despair when paradise is within sight and almost within his reach?

If the Colorado Republican House ejects the Democratic members and the Democratic Senate ejects the Republican members, there will be a pretty political mess in that thriving state. Perhaps it will have to make a change and do its legislative work with one body, as the city of St. Louis expects to do.

In comparing the slaughter of our presidential hunter with that of the Emperor of Germany it must not be forgotten that William has immense game preserves and all conveniences for easy killing. In the United States a hunter may tramp a whole day without shooting anything but another hunter.

The desertion of 4667 men from the army during the fiscal year—enough to fill five regiments—may not be connected with the abolition of the canteen, but Gen. Corbin thinks it is. The military thirst is a fearful and wonderful thing.

The indications from Washington are that not a penny of the exorbitant high tariff that is benefiting trusts will be removed. Not even the absurd duty on hides, which makes shoes so costly, seems likely to be touched.

An penny postage was not an issue in the recent election, it may soon come. In the blessing of cheaper postage we may be expected to overlook the neglect our statesmen will show in more important matters.

POST-DISPATCH SNAP SHOTS.

Do any of the politicians with a shrunken majority suspect alum?

Don't think I like this wagon because I am so much attached to it—Old Horus.

The election appears to have silenced Congressman Loud, but there are other loud congressmen.

After seeing what alcohol has done for city politics we must be sure to keep alum out of municipal government.

The many people, old and young, now arranging to be unhappily married have probably skipped the divorce records in reading the newspapers.

It is now 25 years since a St. Louis cow got sick from swallowing an iron pump handle three feet long. Dairy men have ever since been cautious about letting a cow loiter near the pump.

St. Louis epicures are now feasting on English sturgeon, black cock, partridge and grouse, there being a temporary difficulty in obtaining American birds. The American turkey, however, will prevail on the 27th.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

READER—"Cavalleria Rusticana" is grand opera.

C. A. WEST—Mr. Busch married a Miss Anheuser.

M. J. S.—Prof. A. C. Elmer is organist at Temple Israel.

GEO. ERNST—Prince Henry came to St. Louis March 3, 1902.

A. E. GOOD—Apply to commandant Jefferson Guards, World's Fair building.

SUBSCRIBER—Registration in 1900 is good until 1904 if you don't move. There must have been a mistake.

P. E. J.—The shooting affray at Grand and Natural Bridge road in which Jack Williams figured was March 10, 1890.

REGULAR SUBSCRIBER—The vote at majority election was: Wells, 4,367; Parker, 29,888; Meriwether, 29,596; Greenbaum, 287; Fry, 227; Philby, 263.

INQUIRER—The Eads bridge was dedicated July 4, 1874. St. Louis was founded Feb. 15, 1764, incorporated as a town on Nov. 3, 1808, incorporated as a city on Dec. 9, 1820. The first exposition opened Sept. 2, 1884.

J. S. S.—Makers of sauer put their names on them for advertising purposes. Just as a bicycle manufacturer puts his name on the wheel. Furniture is not so marked because it is for domestic use and buyers would not like it with an ad on it. The idea is not as Julius Caesar, if not as old as the Egyptian kings of the seventh dynasty.

PRINCES.

Oh, how we love the royal blood!
Oh, how we love a title!
Just so it is a kingly breed,
The color is not vital.

We love to see a princely chap,
No matter whom his father.
Just so he's fed on royal pap,
The rest will never bother.

We love to entertain a prince,
Though to the flag we're loyal,
And matters we will never mince,
If he is truly royal.

His title is enough alone
To stamp him as perfection,
And make us bow before the throne
With nimble genuflection.

We talk of freedom and such things;
We hate the man-enslaver,
But oh, the dignity of kings
Commands our loving favor!

Whatever be the prince's land—
Ruse, Siamese or German—
A medal in his princely hand
Our conduct will determine.

We'd place our necks beneath a foot,
If only it were royal,
Some day these princes yet may put
The business on the eagle.

Verblage Extraordinary.

There have been some great word-slingers in this country, including the gentleman who was overcome by "the exuberance of his own verbosity" and the colonel who recently described Texas as "a hunk of mellifluousness," but few can compare with Stuart Henry, a product of the University of Kansas. In the opening sentence of an appreciation of an eminent Kansan, lately deceased, written for the State Historical Society, he says, with impressive ponderosity:

"The way to involution of the destinies that may appear visionarily to preside in memorial over the intricate souvenirs of a modern man who has done with life through rich fullness must summon origins, motives, experiences, cults, so remote, so labarythine, that the faltering commensurator would find yield at once by helplessly seeking recourse to the magic of the universal solvent mystery, and cease with tracing the word itself across a marble slab of memory."

A Skeleton Ode.

O skeleton within the big show window!
How oft I envy you your bony quiet!
You've no more aches or pains or worries,
And now you never have to watch your diet.

"Neuralgia" now never tries to reach you;
The rage of "rheumatiz" you no more feel;
You're never scared by reading of the microbes,
And you've no fear of any surgeon's steel.

Gen. Weyler is telling how he would have defeated the Cubans—if. What a wonderful thing is hindsight!

The Yaqui Indians are fighting again.
They always feel nervous unless they have a scrap on hand.

An eastern football player was disqualified for slugging. Most of them are qualified for it.

Vice and Advice.

One vice there is that will not cling
To forward youth, that wants its fling.
That vice, as you may wish to know,
Is advice. It was ever so.

A MOMENT'S MERRIMENT

A GREATER ACHIEVEMENT.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

Nephew: I see by the newspapers that a young girl out in Indiana has succeeded in tripping an angle.

Old Uncle Timrod: Ugh! I knew a young girl once who took a three weeks' course in a cookin' school and then succeeded in concocting a mince pie that caused her bachelor uncle to die a yellin' and leave her $500 and the family nose.

NOT WORK.

HOW TO READ YOUR SWEETHEART'S TRAITS

THE EYEBROWS TELL TALES

BY HARRIET HUBBARD AYER.

The way to analyze an eyebrow is simple enough. Eyebrows are thick, thin, arched, straight, fine or coarse, flat or rough, regular or indulging in eccentric curves.

Women with luxurious heads of hair usually have thick, abundant eyebrows, and in such cases the sign is of excellent constitution and good health. Such women are strong vital characters and their eyebrows are usually dark, often black, and rarely light.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

physical weakness. Anemic men and women often have light colored thin eyebrows.

When the eyebrows of a woman are coarse and bushy looking you will always find a brusque, abrupt nature—not bad on the contrary, sometimes very fine and noble, but tactless and apt to unintentionally wound the feelings of more sensitive persons.

A very thin, narrow eyebrow delicately arched and looking as though it were pencilled is regarded as a great beauty.

Light, scant eyebrows always betoken

BLIND PARTISANSHIP BLAMED

Rabbi Wise Says Blind and Bigoted Spirit Among Responderable Voters Makes Political Corruption

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—"Political corruption" was the subject of an address before the People's Institute at Cooper Union by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of Portland, Ore. The most prolific source of political corruption, he said, "is the spirit of blind, bigoted partisanship."

"Men think today that parties are ends in themselves. They are only means to the end, which is the country's good."

"Political corruption could not last an hour if the so-called respectable classes did not tolerate and support it."

"Let us have an end to this Irish-American, German-American or Zulu-American. We are all Americans. I am an American. In my religion and moral teachings, I am a Jew, but I would not vote for a Jew unless he were three times as good as his opponent, for fear that he might discredit that religion."

Women on Sanitary Questions.—A meeting of the sanitary committee of the Civic Improvement League will be held tomorrow afternoon in the rooms of the Provident Association on Washington avenue. The committee is composed of women. All women interested in the welfare of the city are invited to be present.

ALCOHOL RULES IN POLITICS

Father Coffey Says the Whisky Interest Controls City and State—Plan for Sober Officials.

Rev. Father James T. Coffey, in a lecture last night in the Masonic Temple building, under the auspices of the Church of Unity, declared that alcohol rules the political parties of the city and state, and that the brewers and saloonkeepers control politics. He also paid his respects to the police department by criticizing the members for their methods and accusing them of drinking in saloons.

Father Coffey concluded with an appeal for a united effort to suppress drunkenness in public office and pleaded that only sober men be elected to positions of public trust, and those whom the saloon cannot dominate.

Oysters and clams, a regular restaurant for all, open day and night. Popular prices. Milford, 27 North Sixth street.

Misses Fuchs to Wed.—The engagement of Miss Clara L. and Hedwig J. Fuchs of 203 Sidney street, to Messrs. G. Knecht of Hot Springs, Ark., and M. W. Husemeyer of Great Falls, Mont., respectively, have been announced by their mother, Mrs. Agnes Fuchs. Both weddings will take place shortly.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE

Notwithstanding reports to the contrary, the price of the Christmas (Edition de Luxe) number of

THE DELINEATOR

will be 15 cents per copy, the annual subscription price remaining the same, $1.00 per year.

The October and November issues of The Delineator were entirely exhausted, although 806,000 copies of the November number were printed. With an edition of

900,000 COPIES of this special Christmas number (Edition de Luxe) it is the hope of the publishers that the demand may be supplied.

Now for sale on all news-stands.

HARPERS

The MAID-AT-ARMS

Illustrated by Christy 1.50

This important novel of love and adventure deals with the early patron families of New York.

BY Robert W. Chambers Author of "CARDIGAN."

HARPER & BROTHERS, Franklin Square, New York.

HARPERS

The INTRUSIONS of PEGGY

Illustrated $1.50

"A 'Dolly Dialogue' version of 'Vanity Fair'—an innocent Becky Sharp."

—Brooklyn Eagle.

By ANTHONY HOPE

HARPER & BROTHERS, Franklin Square, New York.

DO YOU KNOW

THAT THE ROYAL BLUE TRAINS OF THE B. & O. R. R.

Between Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York. Are the quickest, best and most-economical trains in the world.

TRY THEM ON YOUR NEXT TRIP.

For information call at B. & O. R. R. TICKET OFFICES

THE CONQUEST

Mrs. Dye's great American romance will be published November 12. "The true story of Lewis and Clark."

THE NEWEST BOOKS

"Tom Moore," a romance, by Theodore Burt Moore, is a beautiful book to look at to say nothing of its contents. St. Louisans ought to appreciate this book, after having seen Mr. Andrew Mack in the play of the same name, founded on this romance, for he gave a striking characterization of Ireland's favorite bard. The author has not confined himself strictly to history in writing this novel, but he has not violated it. Most of the incidents actually had to do with the life of Tom Moore. Mr. Moore has made his hero a rollicking, charming Irishman, who wins the hearts of all by his humor and genial qualities. A feature of the book is the half-tone engravings made from photographs of the play by Marceau & Byron. (The Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York, $1.50.)

"The Garden of Lies," by Justus Miles Forman, is the striking title of a romantic story of love and adventure in modern Paris. A beautiful American girl is the heroine. There is a motley of plot, intrigue, jealousy and idyllic love, and some clash of swords. It is a striking and original story, exciting, engaging and well worth while. (The Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York, $1.50.)

"Love Songs and Other Poems," by Owne Inaely, is one of the latest offerings of the Grafton Press of New York. The volume is divided into three parts: (1) Love Poems and Sonnets; (2) Miscellaneous; (3) Translations from the Spanish of Gustavo Becquer. It is neatly bound and will repay the student of thoughtful, earnest, artistic verse.

Sarah Biddle of the celebrated Philadelphia family of that name, has published an attractive volume called "Some Letters of an American Woman Concerning Love and Other Things," into which, though published in letter form, is woven a beautiful romance, of which the American woman herself was the central figure. The drawings are by Annetta Gibson McCall. Published by the International Publishing Co., Philadelphia.

JAMES B. CONNOLLY. Author of two new books, "Out of Gloucester," a volume of stirring tales of the sea, and "Jeb Hutton," a lively story for boys, published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

A Bishop's Good Work. The autobiography of the pioneer bishop of the Northwest, Rt. Rev. Henry Benjamin Whipple, D.D., Ltd., has been published at length under the title, "Lights and Shadows of a Long Episcopate." The work is of unusual interest. The early career of the reverend doctor is given some consideration, but the bulk of the volume is made up of his experiences among the Indians in early days in Minnesota, showing the hardships due to lack of transportation, scarcity of food and the utter poverty and improvidence of the people among whom he labored. The fruits of the doctor's efforts are, later on, shown by the portraits of aborigine converts dressed in full Episcopal regalia, the vestments of their office.

Naturally, in a work of this character, anecdotes are largely predominate, but the writer wields a facile pen, and the somber side seldom creeps to the surface. The bishop takes little personal credit to himself for the success of his efforts to christianize the Indians. He believed himself to be but the instrument in the hands of a higher directing power for what good he may have accomplished. Among the interesting exhibits of the work are reproductions in script of autograph letters from Gen. W. T. Sherman, Sibley, the "Grand Old Man" of England, W. E. Gladstone, and others, all conveying their appreciation to Bishop Whipple of his life work, and some of them defining clearly their construction of certain dogmas. The book is valuable as a historical, interesting from a clerical point of view, and the results, as shown by the work, are a monument to a true, thoughtful and earnest man. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

"Something in the City," by Florence Warden, is a tale of criminality in high life in England. The author is merciless in showing to what extent people of a certain character will jeopardize reputation, rank, liberty and even life itself in their pursuit of gain. In this particular instance smuggling is the initial crime, but it is but the seed from which spring all sorts of situations, plots, climaxes and counter plots. The writer uses the material at command to work up a number of exciting situations and never for an instance does the action of the story lag. There is a very pretty love story which serves as a hinder for the component parts of a rather disconnected plot. (F. M. Buckles & Co., New York.)

Mr. F. Marion Crawford has turned to the scene of some of his greatest successes for the plot in his new novel, "Cecilia; a story of Modern Rome," which the Macmillan Co. will publish this month.

"The Crisis," Hackett Edition. The James K. Hackett edition of "The Crisis" is a book that will please those who have seen Hackett in the drama based on this popular story. It is also a handsome compliment to the actor, being printed in the best style, on fine paper, with red borders to the pages and a striking cover design. The frontispiece is a good portrait of Hackett. The introduction is a sketch of his career, and the illustrations are from the scenes of the play. The book is an interesting example of the ingenious way in which literature and the drama can be mutually helpful, under the manipulation of skillful managers with good material to work upon. (New York: Macmillan & Co.)

The Decay of Races. Professor David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr. University, writes an interesting and suggestive study entitled, "The Blood of the Nation," being "a study of the decay of races through the survival of the fittest." The author points out that the character of the nation is determined by "those who are left" after the ravages of disease and war. It is suggested from cover to cover, full of much needed reminders of unheeded truths. (Published by American Unitarian Association: Boston.)

Line cut reproduction of colored illustration in new edition of "Alice in Wonderland," with 12 colored illustrations by Blanche McManus. (Copyright by A. Wessels Co., New York.)

The Sioux and the Railroad. The man who whipped the Sioux Indians until they concluded to let the Union Pacific railroad run through Nebraska, and so link the East with the West, was Maj. Frank North, a much neglected American hero. He was as certainly a builder of empire as Daniel Boone, Kit Carson or Sam Houston, but not half so widely known. Nebraska country where he fought and endured has only recently been described for the first time in fiction, in Elizabeth Higgins' capital novel, "Out of the West." The author has laid her realistic scenes in "Columbia," a section—the present Columbus, Neb.—the site was the Sioux battleground of final protest against the great railroad.

First Woman Minister in America. One of the mourners at the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton the other day was the first woman ordained as a minister in this country, Mrs. Antoinette Louisa Brown Blackwell of Henrietta, N. Y. Mrs. Blackwell is now living in her eighty-fourth year. She was one of the pioneer workers for the rights of women, including suffrage, and endured with them the usual fate of innovators. According to Harper's Encyclopedia of United States History, she was graduated at Oberlin College, Ohio, in 1847, and at the Theological School at Oberlin in 1850. She began in 1848 to speak in public, and first preached in 1848. She became the regular pastor of an orthodox congregational church at South Butler and Savannah, N. Y., at the age of 27, but resigned a year afterwards. Later she adopted the Unitarian belief. She is the author of several works of note.

A Postscript to a Prayer. The problem of children's prayers, and whether they should repeat long exhortations nightly which they cannot understand, is solved in a suggestive way in Mrs. S. P. McLean Green's new novel, "Winslow Plain." The small boy, Timmins, had been reared in the doctrine of eternal damnation, and having in a moment of sinful recklessness climbed a tall tree and made faces at the meeting-house steeple, he wept bitterly with remorse, believing himself a lost soul. But Patsy, his mother's young Sunday school teacher, comforted him and gave him new views, and that night little Timmins got down "squarely on his knees" and evolved this prayer: "Dear God, You love me and I love You. Amen." The next time Timmins was naughty he felt less afraid, but more sorry. "Dear God, I sobbed, kneeling with buried head, 'You love me and I love You.' It did not seem quite enough for my present sad case, and an inspiration came. 'P. S. I'll do better tomorrow,' I gasped, through my tears."

In Roundhead Days. "A Little Captive Lad," by Beulah Marie Dix, is the chronicles of the adventures of a small English boy during the troublesome period of the Cromwell wars. His father was a colonel in the army of the King, and had been banished to Holland after the defeat of his monarch. The father died and left him in the care of one of his troopers, whose character fits his name—Captain John Careless. Capt. Careless fell into hard times during the father's banishment, but did the best he could for his charge. The boy, however, had an elder brother, who was in favor with the Roundheads, and had possession of his father's English estates. Force of circumstances caused Capt. Careless to relinquish the care of the child to his relative. The latter, a good man, but seemingly cold and austere, got along poorly with the boy, but matters righted themselves in the end. It is an engrossing story, as adaptable for general reading as it is for a juvenile. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

A melancholy Prussian should cannibalize cabow; For a most effective poison Is a dose of Prussian Blue.

This rhythmic advice decorated a page in "Cap and Gown," third series, by E. R. Paget. The book is a collection of verses culled for the most part from university papers. Many of them are of much interest and all show talent. They range over every conceivable subject that offers to the fertile brain of the collegian opportunity for pun or poem. Some betray nostalgia, others depict the ardent passion in its most languishing form. One poet writes most cleverly of the joys of laboratory work, while another is candid in deciding what, in his opinion, would be the acts and characteristics of the "Onliest Professor in the O. S. U.," of course, the opinion does not coincide with that of the dignified faculty. The collection is an excellent one and of much interest. (L. C. Page & Co., Boston.)

Witty and Wise. "Around the Capital with Uncle Hank" is an amusing account of the sayings and doings of a New England uncle who visits his nephew in Washington. The old man is taken about to see the sights and meets most of the prominent men in public life. The book abounds in shrewd observation and homely wit. The illustrations are many and useful. The portraits are especially excellent. (By Thomas Fleming. Published by the Nuttall Publishing Co.: New York.)

"Timothy and His Friends" is the story of a clever little gentleman. Evidently the author Mary E. Ireland had some one of her young acquaintances in mind when she wrote this charming tale which is one of the best juveniles that has been published this fall. (The Salfeld Co.: Akron, O., $1.00.)

For those lads who love the flavor of the sea, "Phil and Dick," by Enrique H. Lewis will prove very acceptable. These two boys are thoroughly wide awake and are "middles" in the navy. As a matter of course they have exciting adventures while on practice cruises and their adventurous life at sea is described in detail. Not the least interesting of their experiences is their part during the great storm of a number of years ago in the Samson Islands which wrecked several warships belonging to different nations. It is a wholesome enjoyable story. (The Salfeld Co.: Akron, O.)

Harry Castlemon in his "Struggle for a Fortune" narrates how a lad was forced to fight for what he had been despoiled of by the rascality of a trusted agent. Missing papers and their recovery form the basis for much of the action of the story, which is told in a spirited and interesting way. (The Salfeld Co.)

HOTELS.

There is no argument necessary. The matter is simply submitted in the way of information.

THE NEW ST. JAMES HOTEL has been substantially refitted and every modern and up-to-date convenience has been added to make it a first-class, modern, all-price hotel. We offer the traveler every possible comfort. The rates are: American $2.00 a day and up; European $3.00 a day and up. We serve a $5.00 noonday dinner which you ought to try. Tickets at office, Broadway and Walnut in car to and from Union Station. Proprietor and Manager.

DENTISTS.

BOSTON STEAM DENTAL ROOMS. 413 N. BROADWAY, bet. Lower and St. Charles. EST. 1871—PAINLESS EXTRACTION, 25c. Dr. J. H. Case, Prop. One opp. Hill's. Sundays, 10 to 1.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND Matinee Wed. and Sat. Good Seats, 25c. Night Prices 15c, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c.

LEWIS MORRISON Himself in the New FAUST Next Sunday Matinee—Ward & Vokes, in "The Head Waiter."

IMPERIAL TONIGHT, 15c, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c. 25c FOR LOVE AND HONOR Next Sun. Mat.—The Great Ruby.

HAVLIN'S 25-cent Matinees Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday. 25c Matinee. 15c, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c. Tomorrow. Sunday Mat. Next—"IN OLD KENTUCKY."

STANDARD. The Home of Folly. Two Frolics Daily. The CRACKER JACKS Burlesquers Extra—Harvey Parker, the Little Demon Wrestler. Next Attraction—THE DAINY DUCHESSE.

OLYMPIC TONIGHT AT 8 O'CLOCK MR. RICHARD

MANSFIELD In Shakespeare's Glorious Tragedy, JULIUS CÆSAR.

Mr. Mansfield's appearances are limited to six evenings and the Saturday Matinee. Next Attraction—"THE WIZARD OF OZ."

WED. CENTURY—TONIGHT. Prices 25c to $1.00. PRIMROSE & DOCKSTADER'S BIG MINSTRELS.

Regular Matinee Saturday. Next Sunday—ADOLF PHILIP.

COLUMBIA All This Week and Next Sunday.

Wilfred Clarke & Co. Stuart Barnes, 2-The Joacappa, Howard's Pony Circus, Harker and Lester, Will H. Fox, Mary De Font & Co. Thomas Nest, Jr., Standard Quartet, Turner and De Granville, Margaret Scott, Holmes and Waldrun, The Kirodroms.

15c—30c—50c All Orchestra Chairs Reserved, 75c.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE UNDER-AGE FREE KINDERGARTEN ASSN "The House That Jack Built" Spectacular Operetta in Two Acts.

AT THE ODEON, Friday Night, Nov. 10, 8 o'clock; Saturday Matinee, Nov. 12, 2 o'clock; Saturday Night, Nov. 12, 8 o'clock.

All seats reserved without extra charge on and after Monday, Nov. 10, at Bolman Bros., 1105 Olive st.

HERE'S A BARGAIN

Tomorrow, Tuesday, we place on special sale 300 large wood-seat rockers—exactly like cut—at about half their real value—

98c

The picture was drawn from the rocker and can be relied upon to be exact. These rockers are in golden oak finish—strongly braced back, arms and legs—polished wood seat—attractive in appearance and well made throughout. Tuesday is the day. 98c is the price. The People's is the place.

The People's

1121-1123-1125 OLIVE STREET.

THE STORE WITH THE WHITE FRONT.

"FORCE"

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal

is queen of the May.

Sweet, crisp flakes of wheat and malt.

Couldn't Get Through the Day Without It. Our town uses considerable "Force" Food. We think we couldn't get through the day with out it. (Mrs.) F. P. BRENNAN.

Jim Dumps moved on the first of May. His household goods all went astray. The bread-box, teapot, frying-pan. Were lost within the moving van. "What shall we eat?" wailed wife to him. "Why, 'Force,' of course," cried "Sunny Jim."

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

Is Guaranteed to Cure Coughs, Colds and LaGrippe.

See that the Bell Trade Mark is on every bottle.

There is none "Just as Good."

ALL DRUGGISTS SELL IT IN 25c, 50c, AND $1.00 SIZES.

Reserved

For

Something Good to Eat

PUGILIST FORBES WILL BOX ATTELL TONIGHT

WASHINGTON'S ELEVEN MERELY A HOME FACTOR

Result of Saturday's Game With M. S. U. Causes the Management to Abandon Its Dream of Doing Anything Notable Against Teams From Outside.

Washington University as a football factor in other than local company, is a dream which the university management reluctantly resigned after the Saturday game with Missouri University.

The showing of the Myrtle and Maroon men warrants the belief that, given all the practice and training and coaching possible, the team would still be wanting the essentials that go to make up an eleven which could hope to cope with a team like the Haskell Indians.

Against Missouri the eleven played desparately. It fought with a better resolution to inevitable defeat than it has done heretofore this season. It played badly in spots, but on the whole did its best—best—and its best does not show up well against strong elevens.

The team is sadly wanting in a better distribution of weight in its line. No little portion of its failure against Missouri is due to mere mass preponderance on the part of the Tigers. The line of Washington time and again was borne over like straw by the heavy line and back attacks of the Missourians. A light man, such as Pittman, had no chance to stop mass plays on his position.

But the line could have done better, and the hurdling of the enemy certain should have been stopped.

There were other weaknesses than those of the line, however. If the eleven, to a man, had the organization which the Haskell Indians and the tackling ability of Roberts, it might make a better showing. But at best it is hard to figure an improvement on the part of the team which Washington had in the field Saturday that would put it on a par with the black and old gold.

The aggregation can be commended on one point—it did give up. The fact that Missouri never got far away from the Washington tacklers is decided evidence that the local team has caught the idea of watching the ball and the man carrying it, and of following him to the bitter end. No long runs for touchdowns were made, and Missouri was compelled to fight every inch of the way.

LOCAL LEADERSHIP ONLY.
In arranging plans for a big season and a hard schedule, Washington, it appears, has "bitten off more than it can chew." Its real ability entitles it to local leadership, undoubtedly, but it is doubtful whether it could give White's team a run for the victory.

The management, however, confidently at present has two positive quantities on one side and a negative on the other, the coaching authorities might substitute a good, sound, active bull terrier for the rabbit.

In this way they would assure all participants a chance. We think we can guarantee that the bull terrier would answer the purpose.

We believe, too, that the coaching management would save money. One bull terrier probably would last out the afternoon.

Washington University's football eleven reminds us of a gentleman who flourished when George was young, and who, according to reports set down by certain journalists of the period, was named Icarus.

Both Washington and Icarus were high flyers.

Icarus—We presume this to be the English equivalent of the classical gentleman's name—got it into his wheel works that he was a natural-born flying machine. He went to carrying a little bit around Olympia somewhere, and concluded he'd just get him a pair of wings and fly up to the sun, to put the old boy out of business.

He went down to Madame Jarley's wax works and got him a pair of wings, which he proceeded to stick on himself. For awhile Santos-Dumont's record was nothing and he was selling past the moon and cheap satellites like the Empire Express.

By the time Icarus got into the neighborhood of the sun and the real top-notch soarers, he found he was up against it. Madame Jarley's wax wouldn't hold against the neighborhood of the sun, and it unkindly melted, just when Icarus was within 45,457 miles of the sun.

They have never been able to find all of Icarus's remains.

This story may have some points of doubt about it—the news journals of those days were inclined to be yellow, and even Homer, the great war correspondent of the Troy Herald, was inclined to fudge at times.

For purpose of comparison, however, the story will serve.

Washington is flying too high for its wings, and whenever it gets close to a real warm proposition it is noted that the wax begins to run and its high-flying tendencies wilt.

Improper implements are not adapted to heavenly flights, and weak elevens to championship ambitions.

We reluctantly arrive at the conclusion that courting is no sport.

We attended the final of the Waterloo Cup event at Delmar racetrack yesterday afternoon, and our impression received there is that the pastime is tame.

The chief trouble is with the rabbits—they are too mild. There was plenty of bloodshed (which, as we all know, is the quality of sport) but it was all on the side of the rabbits. There wasn't a solitary dog killed during the afternoon.

We were under the impression that as two dogs were let go to each rabbit, the latter must be a ferocious beast; that was entirely too much for the unassisted greyhound. We acknowledge our mistake.

An informant kindly placed us right and told us that there was no intention on the part of the rabbit to harm the dog. That the rabbit was merely in the game for the purpose of showing which hound could run the faster. Bunny's presence is therefore solely to get himself killed.

There is one chance for him, however—sometimes he runs the dog until they are too tired to run further, even for a nice piece of rabbit meat. Having secured this chance of life, the deadly rabbit is at once deprived of it. Two more fresh dogs are let loose, and Bunny generally says "What's the use?" and lets himself be killed on the spot.

This is unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of Bunny. According to all accepted rules of sporting contests, every participant is expected to have a chance and to give the public a run for its money, by making a fight. The courting people should either make the rabbit fight or keep him out of the sport and race the hounds after a piece of beef. Most of them appear to be in need of a good square meal.

We are not alone in our opinion. Every time relief dogs were slipped yesterday 100 persons in the crowd groaned. We presume this was because none of the rabbits were able to satisfy the question, which anticipated having a stronger eleven in the field than the one now representing it. Several candidates who were expected to attend the institution failed to appear and the team found itself almost short of eleven men.

The policy of ignoring the local elevens appears to have been a bad one, as it deprived the aggregation of much valuable experience against elevens with which it could run. Some of the games early in the season with teams like Illinois served only to break up the men and discourage them by showing them their real class.

If Washington keeps its spirit up it still has a chance to finish out the season creditably. Marion Sims and C. B. V. have volunteered to help out the Washington aggregation in practice and during the present week. Washington's defense should pick up.

Saturday the eleven goes against Iowa, which has shown very weak. Michigan rolled up 107 points against Knipe's aggregation. Unless Roberts and V. come out of the game, White's men may do something better than the average for a college team.

Following that contest comes a game with Central College which Washington should capture.

Thanksgiving Day the Haskell Indians come. The home team hardly has the remotest chance to get into shape to beat the Indians, but the boys may improve and give them a hard time.

ROLLA VS. C. B. C.
The game of the week locally will be that between Rolla and C. B. C., scheduled to be played Saturday on the college campus. Todd's men have had a week's lay-off and will get into the game with renewed spirit.

Rolla has shown better strength than any of the local teams that have played the Miners, and is expected to defeat Todd's crew. That depends almost entirely on the interesting story that the field are afforded Rolla during the game. Todd has worked the great hillbacker to place kicks from the field and the record kicker of the city has been doing great work during the game. Todd says he will kick three of them, and the Miners will be expected to defeat Rolla.

Smith and High again proved their worth by winning hands from their opponents Saturday. Both teams have their hearts set on the Thanksgiving day battle at Pastime Park, as far as the local game of the season then, so far as clean playing and a close match are concerned.

At present has two positive quantities on one side and a negative on the other, the coaching authorities might substitute a good, sound, active bull terrier for the rabbit.

In this way they would assure all participants a chance. We think we can guarantee that the bull terrier would answer the purpose.

We believe, too, that the coaching management would save money. One bull terrier probably would last out the afternoon.

Washington University's football eleven reminds us of a gentleman who flourished when George was young, and who, according to reports set down by certain journalists of the period, was named Icarus.

Both Washington and Icarus were high flyers.

Icarus—We presume this to be the English equivalent of the classical gentleman's name—got it into his wheel works that he was a natural-born flying machine. He went to carrying a little bit around Olympia somewhere, and concluded he'd just get him a pair of wings and fly up to the sun, to put the old boy out of business.

He went down to Madame Jarley's wax works and got him a pair of wings, which he proceeded to stick on himself. For awhile Santos-Dumont's record was nothing and he was selling past the moon and cheap satellites like the Empire Express.

By the time Icarus got into the neighborhood of the sun and the real top-notch soarers, he found he was up against it. Madame Jarley's wax wouldn't hold against the neighborhood of the sun, and it unkindly melted, just when Icarus was within 45,457 miles of the sun.

They have never been able to find all of Icarus's remains.

This story may have some points of doubt about it—the news journals of those days were inclined to be yellow, and even Homer, the great war correspondent of the Troy Herald, was inclined to fudge at times.

For purpose of comparison, however, the story will serve.

Washington is flying too high for its wings, and whenever it gets close to a real warm proposition it is noted that the wax begins to run and its high-flying tendencies wilt.

Improper implements are not adapted to heavenly flights, and weak elevens to championship ambitions.

We reluctantly arrive at the conclusion that courting is no sport.

We attended the final of the Waterloo Cup event at Delmar racetrack yesterday afternoon, and our impression received there is that the pastime is tame.

The chief trouble is with the rabbits—they are too mild. There was plenty of bloodshed (which, as we all know, is the quality of sport) but it was all on the side of the rabbits. There wasn't a solitary dog killed during the afternoon.

We were under the impression that as two dogs were let go to each rabbit, the latter must be a ferocious beast; that was entirely too much for the unassisted greyhound. We acknowledge our mistake.

An informant kindly placed us right and told us that there was no intention on the part of the rabbit to harm the dog. That the rabbit was merely in the game for the purpose of showing which hound could run the faster. Bunny's presence is therefore solely to get himself killed.

There is one chance for him, however—sometimes he runs the dog until they are too tired to run further, even for a nice piece of rabbit meat. Having secured this chance of life, the deadly rabbit is at once deprived of it. Two more fresh dogs are let loose, and Bunny generally says "What's the use?" and lets himself be killed on the spot.

This is unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of Bunny. According to all accepted rules of sporting contests, every participant is expected to have a chance and to give the public a run for its money, by making a fight. The courting people should either make the rabbit fight or keep him out of the sport and race the hounds after a piece of beef. Most of them appear to be in need of a good square meal.

We are not alone in our opinion. Every time relief dogs were slipped yesterday 100 persons in the crowd groaned. We presume this was because none of the rabbits were able to satisfy the question, which

FOOTBALL WASHINGTON HOPES GO DOWN AGAIN

MIKE AND PHIL DWYER, TURF PLUNGERS

Famous Racetrack Operators Who Are Again Coming to the Front After Having Lost All Their Fortune.

ONE THOROUGHbred RETRIEVED MIKE DWYER'S FORTUNES

Ethics, Now the Only Racer in Possession of the Man Who Once Owned the Greatest Stable in America.

BY R. D. WALSH.

Mike Dwyer, the famous turf plunger, is on his feet again. For several years he has been testing the dregs of poverty and battling with an adverse fate, but the silver lining has at length appeared on his cloud.

In the last two years he is reported to have netted $100,000, and all this came about through the courage and speed of his 4-year-old colt, Ethics, by Charaxus.

He is the only horse that Dwyer now owns. Dwyer once owned the greatest stable in the United States.

In all the annals of American turf history there is no more famous name than that of Mike Dwyer. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

In 1875 the Dwyers were engaged in the butchering business in Brooklyn and had become wealthy by the time Mike was born. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

His first attempt at victory on the turf was with a horse named Rhadamanthus, which he raced on the Saratoga track. This was a great success for him, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

to that time, had never been surpassed in the United States. They were now on a firm financial basis.

Mike Dwyer, the famous turf plunger, is on his feet again. For several years he has been testing the dregs of poverty and battling with an adverse fate, but the silver lining has at length appeared on his cloud.

In the last two years he is reported to have netted $100,000, and all this came about through the courage and speed of his 4-year-old colt, Ethics, by Charaxus.

He is the only horse that Dwyer now owns. Dwyer once owned the greatest stable in the United States.

In all the annals of American turf history there is no more famous name than that of Mike Dwyer. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

In 1875 the Dwyers were engaged in the butchering business in Brooklyn and had become wealthy by the time Mike was born. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

His first attempt at victory on the turf was with a horse named Rhadamanthus, which he raced on the Saratoga track. This was a great success for him, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power. He was a man of great fortune, and he was a man of great power.

Haughton Goes to Chicago to Get One of the Boxers for a Local Engagement.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Harry Forbes will have an opportunity tonight to show whether his victory of a year ago over Abe Attell of San Francisco was deserved.

Chicago tonight is the scene of a boxing match between Harry Forbes and Abe Attell. The two men will fight six rounds at 118 pounds.

A number of local enthusiasts will go to Chicago to witness the contest, among them President Haughton of the West End Club. Haughton expects to return with a match in his pocket for one of the other of the principals in tonight's battle.

On past form, few figure that the result will be more than a draw for Attell. The latter has shown such remarkable ability for keeping out of reach of dangerous swarms that it is hard to figure how even a clever man like Forbes can get to him in a fight.

Forbes' sole chance for a finishing blow appears to rest with Attell himself. If he later undertakes to mix with the bantam champion it is almost certain that Attell will knock him out.

With ordinary caution Attell should jab Forbes according to his usual tactics and make him fight on his own terms.

Another battle of importance scheduled for tonight is that between Marvin Hart and Jack Root, to take place at the Lyceum Club. The men are at the top of their form, and the bout is attracting a most as much notice as the battle between the two men.

Jack McKenna, who once managed Attell, and who claims to be the champion of the world in boxing, is expected to fight tonight.

Attell has made a bad match," said McKenna Monday morning. "He should have been matched with a fighter who would have been weakened by making the weight, while he can do the figure easily. It was this condition that hurt Forbes when the pair met at the West End club a year ago.

Winning the fight, McKenna said, would have been a great deal for Forbes. If he wins he gets a mere decision, while if he loses he gets a knockout.

At 115 pounds Forbes is 10 per cent better than he was a year ago, and will be more confident. Forbes has been fighting right along of late, while Attell has been practically idle. He is as strong as a horse and I look to see him get the verdict in the coming affair.

Young Corbett and Austin Rice finally got together, in spite of opposition. Saturday night at New London the pair went three rounds to a draw at a New London theater. Young Corbett was supposed to go in for a monologue, but the affair turned out to be a boxing bout. Rice showed great cleverness against the champion.

It is now "understood" that Terry McGovern and Young Corbett are going to meet in San Francisco Dec. 25 to fight their long delayed battle. Bids will be opened for the fight, which is expected to be a great one.

Prisco clubs have a chance to pull off the event. McGovern admitted that it was practically a foregone conclusion that Corbett on the date named at San Francisco.

"Al Weing wants a 'rid' match with his last bout with the 'Kid' found him in poor condition.

JACK O'BRIEN.
The next three weeks will be a trying pugilistic period for "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien, and his ring engagements during that time will be of unusual interest to followers of the glove game for the reason that they may see one of the best just where the Quaker city slugger belongs on the middleweight scale. The trio of bouts in which O'Brien (whose proper name is Hagan by the way) will participate within a period of a few days will be of the utmost and at the same time give him an opportunity to make good his reputation as a fighter.

He will fight first on Nov. 12, at the premier middleweight in the ring today. As the contests are to take place in Philadelphia, they will be of only a few rounds each and without decisions, but despite the short distance the milling

YALE AND HARVARD SHOWED SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT SATURDAY

Daly's Return to West Point Causes Considerable Speculation as to the Army and Navy Contest Which Is Most Important Outside of Yale-Harvard-Princeton Games.

BY CHARLES CHADWICK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The football situation as regards Yale, Harvard and Princeton was not materially altered in Saturday's games. Princeton did not play at all. Yale and Harvard both showed slight improvement, more marked, perhaps, at Yale, because of a weaker opponent.

Interest in Saturday's contests therefore centers, to a great extent, in the work done by the two teams. Pennsylvania's of the second-class team, Harvard (11 to 0), and Columbia's utter rout before Brown (23 to 0) were perhaps the features of the day.

Daly's return to the field at West Point, where he kicked two field goals and helped generally to pile up 16 points against Union, and the Navy's lucky victory over Lafayette (12 to 11), also give rise to considerable speculation with regard to the outcome of the annual Army-Navy game, the last of which was played at West Point last year.

CORNELL.
For the rest Cornell shut out Washington and Jefferson by a score of 69 to 0. The Cornell team, which played very well, was defeated by Pennsylvania, 34 to 0. But these games have aroused no special comment, with the possible exception of the fact that Warner played an exceptional game at guard for the Cornell eleven.

Columbia's showing has been the one great surprise of the season. Beaten roundly by Princeton, and by Pennsylvania, it remained for a team of the second-class to complete her utter downfall, by running up a total of points greater than that of either of the big teams mentioned. There is something tragic in Columbia's fall.

It seems at first sight inexplicable. The reason is not far to seek. Football is a game of speed, and speed depends upon condition. Columbia's team has been overworked in the effort to keep up its play in the big games, and, besides, a number of the players have been dropped. Thorpe, who was the best player in the line, has been out for weeks because of a bad cold, and Weekes, one of the speediest running halfbacks that the game has seen, has been out through the last two games on a sprained ankle. Columbia's team lost simply because it was slow and because Brown was fast.

BROWN IS FAST.
The speed of the Brown team has been noted in every game it has played this year, and it was their speed which won the game. Man for man, Brown is, if anything, inferior in weight, strength and ability to Columbia, though she does possess stars like Colter and Barry.

Pennsylvania played the best game against Harvard that she has played this year. In fact, her men played a better game than Coach Williams or Capt. Gardiner had any reason to expect. With a punter who can kick a ball 100 yards, a fullback who can run with the ball, and a quarterback who can throw a pass, the team was a real team.

In the second half, after both sides had scored once, Stayer, Lafayette's quarterback, caught a kick and ran through the whole navy team for a touchdown. Then, with the score 11 to 7, in favor of Lafayette, the navy worked the ball up toward the Lafayette goal, and as a last resort McNair tried a field kick.

Had the attempt been successful, the score would have been tied. Stayer tried to catch the ball and fumbled it. McNair then kicked the ball, and it went into the three-yard line. The next player pushed the ball over, and a goal was scored. The game was turned into sudden and unexpected victory.

This contest was the most sensational one of the day. In fact, as a surprise, it was not surpassed by anything which happened on the gridiron this season. It has revived interest and speculation in regard to the Army-Navy game, which the navy meets the army.

A great many changes may happen before the Army-Navy game, but the navy's victory by the navy over Lafayette has set the West Point boys to thinking.

It is, miles have been reeled over it in 144, and six furlongs in 144. A large percentage of the horses that have been to New Orleans, where the season opens Thanksgiving Day.

JORDAN MCGOVERN.
The man who has fallen through the Terry McGovern has fallen through. The Englishman insisted on 122 pounds ring-side. Harris would not agree to this, nor would he have offered a purse if he agreed to make Jordan's weight.

"Fighting Bob" Gray is what they call the president of the Southern Athletic Club in Louisville now. Gray started in to prove that the player who started the fight against the McGovern-Corbett was a fraud. "And I'll prove it, too," Bob threatened.

Word comes from San Francisco that Walcott will find it a difficult matter to break into any of the Frisco boxing clubs again. While Pierce's man has been barred, Walcott's man has been barred.

FRISCO'S NEXT FIGHT.
The next fight of importance booked for San Francisco will bring together Jimmy Britt, the coast champion, and Frank Errol of Buffalo. This battle will determine whether the coast champion is a champion or not. The battle is on the books of the Yosemite Club.

The clashing of dates between Chicago clubs can mean only one thing—the ultimate suppression of boxing in Chicago, says a winning city writer. The Chicago club on the West Side can only on Monday nights. The South Side club was asked to split dates with the Lyceum, each taking alternate dates.

Among the two shows a month and a half ago, the South Side club was asked to split dates with the Lyceum, each taking alternate dates. The result of it all will be a glove put on in public exhibitions here.

RACING AT WASHINGTON
The annual meeting of the Washington Jockey Club will begin at the Benning racetrack this afternoon. It will continue for several days. There is every reason to believe that the meeting will be the best in the history of the club.

The class of thoroughbreds will be of a high grade, comprising many of the most prominent sires of the metropolitan club. There has been a great demand for stable room, and the odds on the track will be large. This, however, will not help the sport in any way.

Among the prominent sires which will race during the meeting are those of A. Featherstone, August Belmont, Andrew Miller, John P. Jones, V. Colt, James H. Smith, and others. The meeting will be a great one.

The Benning track is now in good condition, and the racing will be of a high class. The meeting will be a great one.

The Benning track is now in good condition, and the racing will be of a high class. The meeting will be a great one.

The Benning track is now in good condition, and the racing will be of a high class. The meeting will be a great one.

RHEUMATISM Tortures, Cripples and Deforms.

Rheumatism does not treat all alike. Some suffer torture from the very beginning, the attack being so sudden, sharp and disastrous that they are made helpless cripples in a few days, while others feel only occasional twitches of pain in the joints, ankles, elbows and wrists.

But this treacherous disease is only traveling by slower stages. The acid poisons are all the while accumulating in the blood, and muscles and joints are filling with corroding, acrid matter, and when the disease tightens its grip and strikes with full force, no constitution is strong enough to withstand its ferocious blows, and its victims are crippled and deformed, or are literally worn out by constant pain. Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid, which is a poison in the blood, and this is the cause of every variety and form of this dread disease. External remedies do not reach the blood, consequently do no lasting good. S. S. S. goes directly into the circulation and attacks the disease itself. The acid poisons that cause the inflammation, soreness and swelling are neutralized and the blood purified and cleansed of all irritating matter, and nothing is left in the circulation to produce other attacks. S. S. S. being a vegetable remedy does not impair the digestion or general health like alkaline potash remedies, but builds up and invigorates the entire system, and at the same time makes a thorough and permanent cure of Rheumatism.

White for our free book on Rheumatism. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

DR. KING CURES
Contagious Blood Poison Never to Return. Low of Heavy Virus, No Stomach, Not Permanent. Various Widespread Operations and Remedies.

I want every man afflicted with any disease of the blood to know that there is a cure. I will cure you, or I will not. I will cure you, or I will not. I will cure you, or I will not.

A CERTAINITY of a cure is what I want. I have so much confidence in my treatment

LOST AND FOUND
14 Words or Less, 20 Cts.
Lost

BAG—Lost, on Bellefontaine car. ing, Oct. 30, green bag, contains music and stand; $5 reward. Return to 1210 E. 12th st.

BULLDOG—Lost, white bulldog when last seen was wearing small collar. Liberal reward if returned to Washington av.

DOG—Lost, liver and white pointer.
Page av.

DOG—Lost, white stik poodle dog
short hair; reward: return to 1320
E. 12th st.

DOG—Lost, black cocker spaniel; name and address on new collar; reward $1470 Goodfellow av.

DOG—Lost, Sunday, fox terrier, head and spot on back. Return av.; reward.

JACKET—Lost, black, long-sleeved.

KEY—Lost, round key, with 4 gr
9th and 8th on Washington

4001 N. 11th st.
MALE—Lost, strayed or stolen, b. hands high; white foot; left hand tail. Chas. Riehl, 1406 Raugh, re-tions asked. Day, 910 Century b.
RING—Lost, diamond and ruby ring; heirloom; will give liberal rewards asked. Day, 910 Century b.
UMBRELLA—Lost, umbrella. Thum on Olive car; blue silk, pearl and Return go 2704 Pine st. and rece-
WATCH—Lost, lady's gold watch. ing; name "Marguerite" engraved; al reward if returned to 4388
Found.

PURSE—Found, purse, containing ticket and automobile ticket; call same and pay for this notice. Ad

THEATRICAL.
14 Words or Less, 20 Cents.
PROF. RICHARD'S Stage Dancing, dramatic art taught, any horn. Send for circular. Ad. W 110, Post-D.
THEATRICAL people in all lines week stands. Ad. W 110, Post-D.
AU-DE-VILLE PEOPLE WANTED specialty company; also advance be experienced; show opens Dec. 1.
stamp; state your act fully. Ad.
W 110, Post-D.

BUSINESS CHANCE.
14 Words or Less, 20 Cents.
BAKERS—Get prices on oven from Oven Mfg. Co., 60 W. Van Ness St.,
can be seen in operation. Ad. W 510,
Post-D.
NOTICE—Encouragement given for facturing companies to locate
L. W. Spaulding, sec. Commercial
Trust Co., 100 W. Van Ness St.,
San Francisco, Cal.

BUSINESS YEAH.
14 Words or Less, 20 Cents.

BUSINESS WANTED
14 Words or less, 20¢

BUSINESS—A good established take sale cheap in good location; a good living. 5239 Delmar bl. bl. car.

UNFURNISHED FLATS—2 furnished each, been a rooming house for furniture and a money-maker; $2 N. 15th st.

UNFURNISHED FLAT—Four-room $125 cash. 1314A Franklin av.

GROCERY—Cash grocery and market. Inquire 1400 Franklin av.

LUNCH STAND—For sale, lunch at day. 21st and Washington av.

RESTAURANT—215 N. 18th st.; read other business.

RESTAURANT—Cheap for cash; satisfactory reasons given for sale. S. Jefferson av.

ALCOON—In good location; sell on sickness. Obert's, 12th and Lynch.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS W.
14 Words or less, 20c

ABSOLUTELY full value paid for the entire contents of houses and flats. Dickson, 4336 Maryland. Kin. B. 3

ALL KINDS of furniture, carpets, a price; send postal. Bensinger, 2028

ALL KINDS of household goods and a price; send postal. Bensinger, 756 1704 Franklin av. 4-6-36

ALL KINDS furniture, piano, carpet, houses, flats, stores bought; highest

BEFORE moving sell furniture and want: send postal Ashten 1111 S

WANTED—Full value weight. M. Speelman, 2628 Olive;
FEATHER BEDS—Pay $5 to $15
card. T. J. Ryan, West End
WANTED—Odd feather beds; send postal. S. Bacia, 118
FURNITURE WANTED—For cash, carpets and other contents of co-modious residence or flat. Call or address: Wells, 1210 Olive st., phone C 893.
FURNITURE bought in any quantity for entire contents of houses and apts. C. 1148 Olive st.; C 742. Main fr.
HOUSEHOLD GOODS—Buy furniture, carpets; carloads; small lots. Rice FEATHERS—For honest well-dealings; postal. Globe Pillow Co.,
WANTED, all kinds. Sentimental

HOUSEHOLD GOODS FOR

HOUSEHOLD GOODS
14 Words or Less, 20 Cents

Furniture.
BEDROOM set, 43; Singer machine, bed, dresser, wardrobe, sideboard, 11th at.
D. ETC.—Beautiful old solid mahogany bed and sideboard. 3330 Finney ave.
FURNITURE—Parlor, bed and dining room; cheap; leaving town. 3225 M.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS—Will sell at 10¢, contents of beautifully furnished parlor, consisting of mahogany upright piano, cabinet, parlor suit, old plates, mirror and cabinet, tables, pedestals, statuary, lace curtains, draperies, picture, mahogany oak dining set, mahogany sideboard, mahogany dresser, brass bed springs and hair mattress.

ak dressers and chiffoniers, Tur ockers and chairs, leather couch esk, bookcase, library table, rugs, c

Stoves, Ranges, Etc.
SALE—New heat stoves, cook stoves, new furniture, maid cases, rug, etc. for cash; time if desired.
 Storage Co., 2212 to 2219 Wash. st.

Sewing Machines.
SEWING MACHINES—Great bargains. Selling the latest improved drop-bottom machines at reduced prices; also machines rented and repairing promptly; needles and parts for all makes. New York Sewing Machine Co.

Miscellaneous.

HANDELIERS :
Immense stock at retail.
BELLE-HICKEY MFG. CO., 901
MISCELLANEOUS WANTED
14 Words or less, 20c
CANADIAN and foreign money; also m metal and revenue stamps wanted
Locust Stamp and Coin Co., 1008
OL TABLES WANTED—Buy or h
ndridge, 2715 N. Leffingwell or b
NTED—Men's old clothing; pay tw anyone else; send postal. Gilbert,
MISCELLANEOUS FOR

14 Words or less, 20c

L-High-grade, clean coal, 10c per ton, 1011 Park St.,
 L-Dorr's high-grade, 10c per ton, 1011 Park St.,
 L-Furnace egg, 10c per ton, 1011 Park St.,
 L-Beautiful slacks with each
 L-For all customers' signs, 10c per L-Always in stock, 1011 Park St.

